THE UNIVERSITY

Sonoma State University is one of the 23 campuses of the California State University. Located in the Sonoma County wine country, 48 miles north of San Francisco, the University has an enrollment of approximately 9,000 students. As of spring 2013, the University had 497 faculty with 47% tenure-track. The University is comprised of six schools: Arts and Humanities, Business and Economics, Education, Extended and International Education, Social Sciences, and Science and Technology. Degrees are offered in 45 majors at the bachelor's level and 16 at the master's level. Sonoma State University occupies 274 acres in the beautiful wine country of Sonoma County, in Northern California. Located at the foot of the Sonoma hills, the campus is just an hour’s drive north of San Francisco and 40 minutes away from the Pacific Ocean.

THE DEPARTMENT

The SSU Anthropology Department offers a B.A. in Anthropology, a minor in Anthropology, and as of Fall 2016, a B.A. in Human Development, in addition to an M.A. in Cultural Resources Management (CRM). Committed to an integrated, four-field approach in anthropology, the present full time faculty consists of one linguistic anthropologist, one ethnographic anthropologist, two archaeologists, and two biological anthropologists. Faculty members conduct research on a variety of topics and pride themselves on involving students in applied research that often results in conference presentations and publications. The Anthropological Studies Center is a research facility of the Anthropology Department. Prospective applicants are encouraged to peruse the Cultural Resources Management program webpage (http://www.sonoma.edu/anthropology/graduate/master.html), the Anthropological Studies Center webpage (http://www.sonoma.edu/asc/) and the Anthropology Department’s main webpage (www.sonoma.edu/anthropology).

DUTIES OF THE POSITION

The successful candidate will teach 3 undergraduate courses (12 units) per semester. These will include lower-division and/or upper-division cultural anthropology courses, per the department's needs. These could include an upper division courses in Applied Ethnographic Methods (4 units), and an upper division topics course in the candidate's field of expertise. The candidate will also teach lower and/or upper division general education courses in the anthropology major. These courses are Anth 203: Introduction to Cultural Anthropology (a 3-unit lower division course for majors and General Education students); Anth 340: Living in Our Globalized World (a 3-unit upper division General Education course). Other duties include advising undergraduate students, and assisting the department in cultivating research and/or internship experiences for anthropology majors.
PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

To be recommended for appointment, the candidate must have a Ph.D. in Anthropology. Some experience with university teaching is required at T.A. level or greater; the successful candidate will be a teacher-scholar with a serious commitment to undergraduate teaching and advising. We are interested in candidates with previous or ongoing research in their field of expertise. Demonstrated community engagement, teaching, and/or scholarship addressing diversity in anthropology is also preferred.
