

Congratulations to the May 2010 graduates of the Department of Environmental Studies and Planning.

It's been a pleasure and honor to work with each of you and we are proud of your accomplishments.

While it's always bittersweet to see our students move on, we look forward to what you'll achieve in the years ahead. The world needs you, and your hard work has prepared you to make real contributions.

It's hard to imagine a time when the challenges and opportunities were greater.

Each of you has been a special member of the ENSP community.

In keeping with past tradition,

we have selected two of our graduates for the University's official designation of

"Graduate with Distinction."

This honor reflects unique contributions to ENSP, the campus, and the community.

The honorees for this year are

Krista Lindley

Hasan Taylor

We look forward to seeing you and the entire ENSP community, along with your families and friends, at Commencement and the ENSP reception that will follow it.

Again, congratulations. Do great things, large and small. And, you'll always be a part of ENSP.

ENSP Faculty and Staff

---

Commencement for the School of Social Sciences will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, May 29.

Immediately following, our faculty and staff will host a reception in the

ETC honoring ENSP graduates. Guests are welcome.
