Barspace.tv is looking for an additional intern to work alongside our intern Danielle and our Marketing Director (me). We've begun expanding outside our area and are looking for some motivated people to help with our marketing campaigns. Specifically we're looking to engage our audience through social media.

To give you an example of what we're working on now we've just begun the process of developing a viral video contest to help spur site growth. It's going to be a really cool creative process that will tap into many different facets of social media.

To help students obtain school credits for your time spent with Barspace we will be working closely with the Career Development Center. The requirement is 145 hours. To get this we project the internship will consist of ~15 / 20 hours per week for 3 months.

What we're looking for:

- Fun, creative, hardworking individuals
- Someone interested in social media (or interested in learning)
- Someone up to taking on whatever new challenges we put in front of them
- Someone who can see value in working with a young growing company

If this internship sounds like it might be cool, that you can help us and your self further your career then give us a shout and we'll move forward. Look forward to meeting you.
